"Count" Leon J. Leschinsky of the Jefferson Hotel and Arthur K. THANN, Alsace, Jan. 4, via Paris, Jan. 5 .- A race of three miles up the steep slope at Engelburg, through thickets and up rocky steps, between a battalion of French light infantry with mountain guns, and a German battery determined the result of the stubborn fight for the Alsatian town of Steinbach.

Fighting on German territory for the possession of Steinbach has been in progress approximately two weeks, and the French, now holding that village, and the heights to the southeast, are less than 30 miles from the River Rhine. The French surprised a movement of the German battery ascending toward the summit of the mountain by road, and, taking a short cut, accomplished what seemed to be the impossible.

The French battalion arrived five minutes before the Germans appeared in an open space and had just time to put into position their mountain guns. Five minutes more, all was over. Too late the Germans attempted to rettre, and the battery was annihilated. French to cross the River Thur above the town of Thann and to reinforce the troops operating around Steinbach. At noon on the same day, the French ommenced an attack, which was con tinued without intermission. The French successes began with the capture a the point of the bayonet, of a farm commanding the road entering the own. The French then advanced, road by road, until the village was rea Met With Fire From Steeple.

mans replied with ever-diminis lence, indicating a shortage of ammu-nition. The Germans made a stubborn defense with machine guns and cold steel at the outskirts of Steinbach and chasseurs, also were met with a murchasseurs, also were met with a nurderous fire from the church steeple.

One French company asked permission to charge. Many soldiers fell before they reached the German line, but nothing could stop the rest, and the German force guarding the road was surrounded and annihilated. In possession of the road and the farm, the chamsurs mounted quick-firing guns on a line of abeds connecting with the village and sweeping along, yard by yard, finally captured the first line of houses. The struggle was then continued from house to house, the French losing one day the buildings captured on the preceding day, but always returning to the charge with greater violence and making a furrace advance. Every alley was an ambush and every house a little fortress.

Still, the Germans held on till the morning of Jan. 4, when the last couractous resistance of the defenders was wifn, out by the persistent and impetucing charges of the chasseurs and the whole town was occupied.

This point, the gateway to Cernay (Senneheim), which commands important routes to the south, to the north and to the least, is no longer tenable for the Germans.

turer, to whom she was married in 1908, after a romantic meeting.

The unhappiness of this marriage resulted, according to Mrs. Minakuchi's petition, from her husband's "cruel and inhuman" treatment of her and from the fact that he possessed himself of her fortune of nearly $50,000 and went through with it, leaving her and her 10-year-old son dependent upon her mother, who also has contributed to the support of the Rev. Minakuchl. She alleges that she furnished the money for the education of her husband, who is now capable of earning from $20,000 to $30,000 a year, and asks the Court for fair alimony.

ne more of the mystery about Mrs Ida Rogers was cleared up today by Miss Carolina Rendell, at whose home Walters was living when she obtained her divorce—a few months before the birth of John, one of the two babies she killed with mercury.

Mrs. Rogers Lived With Her. "In the winter of 1911-12 I was living alone, my mother having just died, when a friend suggested that I take a young woman to board, Miss Rendell said.
"She told me that the woman who proved to be Mrs. Walters was a former usic pupil of hers, who, at the time was in the South, having just recovered from tuberculosis. Mrs. Walters wished return to New York and study again. I was glad to have her.

"Well, Mrs. Walters came. She was a beautiful girl, talented, educated in sic and the arts. We became thor oughly good friends and she made me her confident. She told me of her marriage with Walters and of their troubles. She told me she was the daugh-ter of Samuel Sniffen, member of a ily noted in Harlem and Westchester County. I being of an old Harlen nily, recalled her parents and a brothtrained racers and owned them, and the family for years lived in the old Bailey mansion, which stood on the park of the Fleetwood Trotting Club. I attended the same church with the Sniffen family. I remembered Mrs. Walters as a little girl. She told me of having been educated in private schools; having gone abroad with her parents and to the Pacific Coast; of the death of her parents, but that her mother's

She told me the only impedent to their marriage was his young son, Lorlys, by a first wife. She admitted to me that Rogers had been divorced and that his first wife was living and was friendly with him, but Rogers, she told me, thought that until the boy was 21 and in a position to earn his own way, it was his duty to remain single and care

Walters, his friend says, met Miss Sniffen when both lived in a boarding house in West Fifteenth street. She was a clever painter of china and earned a comfortable living by her art. She had a wide acquaintance among stu-dents and other artists in the Washington Square colony, where Walters, for a time in newspaper work and of artistic tendencies, was a close friend in many coteries. The papers in the divorce case show that Walters was mar-ried April 11, 1905, at Elizabeth, N. J. Causes Tuberculosis

Causes Tuberculosis

The Medical Record (New York) of December 18; 1909, contains an article on "The Treatment of Pulmonary Tuberculosis, Based on the Assumption That the Dietetic Cause of the Disease Is Lime Starvation," by Dr. John F. Russell, who says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. * * Among inorganic substances lime saits appear to be of special physiological importance * * but if the saits are not in organic combination it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food."

Years of widespread use confirm us in the belief that the success of Eckman's Alterative in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption) and chronic throat and bronchial troubles is due in large measure to its content of lime, so combined with other ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells.

Doubtless this has had much to do with the results obtained in many cases of these affections, which appear to have yielded to Eckman's Alterative.

As it contains no oplates narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Your drugsist will order it for you or you can send direct.

LTHOUGH Fritzi Scheff is the title role star of "Pretty Mrs. Smith." which began a week's engagemen at the Shubert Theater last night, the seven-league legs of Charlotte Greenwood more convincingly win premier distinction when once the truth is realized that the essential purpose of the plece is to provoke laughter.

-Miss Scheff reveals much of her early Viennese sauciness at certain moments of the story's progress, and there are one or two other moments when hitherto unsuspected tenderness is in evidence, thanks to the deft shaping of a comedy romance which teaches that a woman may love three men, each in a different way, at the same time, yet when the last curtain falls the truth remains that Miss Greenwood's legs have turned the trick that spells success for the play.

Assuredly this was the verdict rendered by the first st. Louis audience that saw "Pretty Mrs. Smith," and, while gently diverted by her embarrassment due to the discovery that she possesses three living husbands, none divorced, two of whom she had thought dead as doornalls, laughed its sides sore at the clowning whimsicalities of the Greenwood underpinning.

But all's well that ends well, and, since an evening of good laughter is worth its weight in gold, so to speak, and as Fritzi Scheff herself doesn't in the least seem to resent the pre-emi-nence of three-fourths of Charlotte Greenwood's funny anatomy, there's no occasion for anybody else to worry. Nor may Miss Scheff and Miss Green-wood exclusively receive all the credit due for the play's success. The subtly physchological "jag" of James A. Gleaon as Forest Smith, one of the three Smith husbands of pretty Mrs. Smith, had very much indeed to do with the final result of general satisfaction. as well, did the Frank Smith of George Fritzi Scheff herself seemed to delight the audience with her singing, which, while marked by skillful pyrotechnics, were enthusiastically applauded.

The really biggest song hits, however, were scored by Charlotte Greenwood first with Sydney Grant in "Mississippi, You're a Grand Old Girl" and then all the house with tears af laughter.

The little new play proved distinctly entertaining from start to finish. It will be all the better when certain lines o mewhat offensive suggestion are elimnated from its dialogue. These lines case with such blemishes, they are of absolutely no value either as fun of

January Clearing Sale

This Clearance differs from the ordinary sales that are in evidence everywhere. Even Our Clearing Sales of the past were not as rich in money savings and wide range of selections as now. The unusual conditions that prevailed during the month just ended brought us many choice lots at extreme underpricing. These all go at the same reductions as our regular lines.

Smart Suits Reduced

Choose from any of the 4 groups below, embracing our entire stock. All the most desirable cloths, many of which are very scarce. Velvets, poplins, velour de laine, broadcloths, etc. The styles, too, are the kind that will be fashionable for Southern resort wear during February, March and April. Gain of $8542 Over 1913 Indicates Grain Organization Is Prosperous.

The annual report of the Merchants' Exchange for 1914, compiled by Secre-tary Eugene Smith, was issued to members today. The report showed the exchange to be in a prosperous condition.

The surplus at the end of the year was $52,959, a gain of $8542 above last year, of which $5388 is credited to current account and $47,570 to real estate. The current account showed a loss of $8989 against last year, accounted for by the reduction of $10 in annual dues. The revenues from the exchange buildng have been well maintained, showing gain in surplus of $17,532.

The property in general is in good ondition and, the report states, that it can be maintained throughout the year without any material increase in operating expenses from that of the past

The membership in the exchange at the close of the year numbered 1140, a loss of 36 members during the year. At the end of 1914 the annual dues were unpaid on 11 certificates, and the certificates were declared forfeited. During the year 20 certificates of deceased members were redeemed by the exchange. Two members were expelled; cates were canceled. Two certificates celed, the members being placed on the nonorary roll.

Dues to be paid by each member for 1915 are $40, the same as for the previous 12 months. The transfer fee is $25, the same as for the past several

BOY SHOT IN EYE BY RIFLE IN HANDS OF A PLAYMATE

Meryle Reed, 13, May Lose Sight o Left Eye as Result of Accident.

Meryle Reed, 13-year-old son of Frank I. Reed, a motorman of 6129 Ella avenue, was struck in the left eye by an air rifle shot accidentally fired by a playmate, yesterday afternoon, and physicians say he will probably lose sight in that eye. A little more than a year ago his elder brother, Wesley, lost his left eye in a hunting accident, when a shotgun was accidentally discharged. Meryle was playing with some other boys at Plymouth and Hodiamont avenues, when Joseph Trendle, 6-year-old son of Charles Trendle, an insurance aspector of 1229 Hodiamont avenue, appeared with the rifle and started to hoot at pigeons.

Are You Among Those Holding Wrong Ideas on Real Estate Ownership? So many persons "assume" and "imagine" that they are unable to buy a home. At the same time they pay rent. The truth is that a person with a regular income who can save or raise a few hundred dollars—for "first payment"—can buy a home. The Post-Dispatch real estate columns tell you where the property can be seen and the terms on which you can buy it.

The January Sale of White and Our Annual Display of "Palm Beach" Apparel is Attracting Thousands

Not in many advertisements can we tell all of the good news that is presented by this extraordinary January Sale of White. This year we have had tremendous advantages and have secured bigger values than ever before. That our efforts are appreciated by the shopping public of Saint Louis and vicinity is proven by the large volume of sales which we have handled since yesterday morning.

Those women who are going South, or to California, will be particularly interested in the elaborate display we are now making of new Spring Costumes, Suits, Coats, Millinery and Waists, which are especially suitable for wear in warmer climates,

Everyone is invited to make it a point to attend this exhibit.

New Hats for Wear at the Winter Resorts

Our annual display of new Millinery to Palm Beach and other Winter resorts, is attracting a great deal of attention, because of the elaborateness and beauty of the exhibit. Many new Hats have been received from New York, while our own workrooms are busy creating new styles for this particular purpose.

Among the new Hats recently received are the small, narrow turbars, straw and velvet combinations in styles of trimmings that are smart yet simple.

Military Observer Tells Operations Up to Capture of Lodz by Kaiser's Armies.

ONCE NEAR A DISASTER

Teutons Cut Their Way Out of the Russian Embrace; Great Losses on Both Sides.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 15.-A military oberver who has just returned from the Eastern theater of war gives an interesting resume of the operations there up o the capture of Lodz by the Germans

He points out that, in the beginning, was the plan of General, now Field Marshal, von Hindenburg, to cut the Russian lines of communication by an dvance from Suwalki in the direction of dalystok, and, possibly, Baranowitshi. With this in view, the reduction of the ortress Ossewitz was attempted by the Germans early in October. But the terrain proved very difficult and, realizing what the plan of Gen. von Hindenburg was, the Russians concentrated a large force against the German left

For a while Von Hindenburg persisted. This led to the fighting about Ausustowo and the vicinity of Lyk. Finally the planned reduction of Osewitz had to be abandoned, and the Germans instead of continuing their vigorous offensive along the East Prussian borders. were obliged to assume the defensive in

As in other parts of the European theater of war, the men began to bury themselves in trenches, Von Hindenourg leaving his forces on the East Prussian border in circumstances resemoling strongly those in Flanders. Both Russians and Germans began a field siege in which now one, then the other, would for a time keep up an aggressive. the sole purpose of which was to let the opponent know that it was considered oper not to move about too much.

Germans Reach the Vistula. Towards the end of October Von Hindenburg appeared suddenly at the head of a large German force advancing in time the Austro-Hungarians, having re-Dankl-Auffenberg operations against Przmesyl and drive the Russians across Russian general staff had been obliged to rush reinforcements to the Suwalki theater of war. This had eased the situation in Galicia, and the Austro-Hungarians had taken advantage of it. In his advance upon the Ivangorod-Warsaw line, Von Hindenburgh finally reached the banks of the Vistula, to discover, however, that the Russians had fortified all bridge heads and elevations along the river. Several attempts were made by Von Hindenburgh to force a crossing, but he soon discovered that this could not be done. He was able, however, to stand his ground. Meanwhile the Austro-Hungarians had i again lost ground to the Russians, Jaroslaw had been taken and, while the Russians had been driven out of Eastern Hungary, they were now threatening the Austro-Hungarian right wing with a massing of troops in Bukovina. Recrossing the San River en masse, the Russians for a time even threatened to cut their way through in Northwestern Galicia. This was averted, however, by prompt maneuvers on the part of the German and Austro-Hungarian forces racow-Przemysl line. progress was made by neither of the onheld the Russians in check from Cracow the line Crocow-Petrikow-Mlava. But the forces of the two empires were too small to carry on a renewed offensive against the Russian masses which had moved across the Rivers San and Vistula like an avalanche. It was then that Von Hindenburgh decided upon a plan which may be said to be typical of him.

By means of a strategical retreat he ordered his center to fall back and kept his own wings more or less in the positions they had occupied, forming in this manner a rough cul-de-sac into which he hoped to trap the Russian force. which he felt would be sent to follow up the retreating Germans. Austrians Too Late.

It is generally admitted, the observer says, that Von Hindenburg's plan would have succeeded had the Austro-Hungarian forces needed by him vas, the Austro-Hungarians, hampered by bad roads, failed to appear in time, and when finally the effort was made to "bite off" the Russian forces which ad taken up the pursuit of Von Hindenburg it was found that the tardiness of the Austro-Hungarians had permitted

Germans. For several days a situation said to ave no parallel in modern warfare exsted. In the center of the theater of operations was a large Russian force, surrounded on three sides by Germans. Beyond the German lines Russian lines were forming—the German position nav-ing thus two faces—and beyond the Russians another line of Germans was form-ing in the north and a line of Austro-

Hungarians in the south and west. Desperate efforts were made by the Germans and their allies to bring together the points of the wings they had laid about the Russian pursuing force. Instead the Russians forced them further apart, until both lines were again straighened out. Von Hindenburg learned two things in these operations The first of these was that his "swamp tactics" of East Prussia had taugh the Russians a lesson; the second was that he had credited the Austro-HunCorsets Clearing Sale garian officers with a degree of effi-ciency they did not possess.

Had it not been for the gallant con-duct of his own men, Von Hindenburg might have gone down in disaster. But the Germans virtually, cut their way out of the tangle they were in, the last cording to the observer here quoted, the Austro-Hungarian army lost nothing by leaving the greater part of Galicia to the Russians. To keep open lines of the Russians are division freeing itself from the strong duct of his own men, Von Hindenburg might have gone down in disaster. But the Germans virtually, cut their way these two forces had a combined fensive, which on Nov. 13 resulted in the direction of the defeat of a Russian division near forces were driven in the direction of Wlozlawek. The Germans followed up Plonsk, where they effected a much their success, re-engaged the division on the following day at Nowi-Duninow killed and wounded many and took 160 the direction of Plosk.

Meanwhile, a German force advanced man left wing resulted in a number of on the right bank of the Vistula, and smaller engagements near Stallupoe- on Nov. 15 defeated a strong Russian nen, Eydtkunen and Soldau, dating force near Lipno. About 5000 Russians from Nov. 12 to 17. Rennenkampf's own were taken prisoners. The remainder of forces numbered at least 650,000 men, it the force retreated also towards Plosk, is asserted. But he failed to develop joined the defeated division from Wlozthe tremendous potentialities of this lawek, and together with some fresh sion of East Prussia seems to have been bandoned after the experience two of his best units had with the Germans Of a sudden, the first army ceased its efforts to break across the border en route for Berlin, and for several days all was quiet.

stablished contact with the Russian cond army near Kutno, then so positioned that a movement against its right flank promised success. With the Russian offensive against East Prussia wrecked, and with an advance threat ening the Russian center, the Russian fifth army was obliged to check its advance upon the Silesian border and the Cracow district. Many of its units were rushed to support the threatened center, or second army. This measure permitted a further development of the flank of the second army. sut the rearrange-ment of the Russian forces came a lit-tle too late, it appears. Gen. von Mack-ensen lost no time in pushing his ad-vance, engaged the Russians on Nov. is, near Kutno, caused them heavy losses in killed and wounded and took its advance, however. Gen. von Hindenburg was in the act of completing his cul-de-sac, and the Russian second army had a double task to perform. Not alone was it necessary to envelop the German northern wedge, but the advance of Gen. von Mackensen had made vigorous counter-offensive necessary. Offensive and counter-offensive on the part of the opponents gave the second army a southwest-northeast line during the next two days, another tooth being hus added to the great battle-saw in

The line of the second army was then from Styrkow-Alexandrowo to Kazimiers. This was pierced by the Germans under Von Mackensen in the evening of Nov. 17 along the Rutno road, and on the following morning the right wing of the second army was folded back upon Brzeziny on the Lodz road. On the 19th the desperate struggle continued. During the day heavy reinforcements from the fifth army arrived, and on the 20th the Russians succeeded in developing their full force. Gen. von Mackensen, however, continued his offensive, succeeding two days later in forcing the Russians into Lodz and colding the territory west, north and east of that city.

Germans Exhausted. Meanwhile the German forces had been thoroughly exhausted. Not alone did they fight an enemy numerically far superior, but the incessant marches and bad weather had weakened them considerably. Fresh troops had to be brought to the scene. These came from the armies which Von Hindenburg was employing on his cul-de-sac maneuver, the site of which was immediately southeast of Lodz. It would have been easy to take these troops through Silesia, but that meant traveling over the two long sides of an acute angle, while a march in a northwesterly direction was no greater than the distance the troops would have to march after they had been detrained. But to take that route was dangerous, as was mply proven on the following day. The division rushed to the relief of the

Von Mackensen army had been facing southeast and to go northwest meant the rear. They were none too strong. moreover, and had been acting on the defensive on the line Chynof-Bedkow. The Russians with whom they were in contact were numerically superior and evidently under instruction to await developments at the head of the Russian

Orders to move on Lodz placed the German troops in a predicament. An evacuation of the position would cause the Russians to follow in pursuit, and since the lack of contact with the Russian forces in and about Lodz might lead to most unpleasant surprises, the undertaking looked extremely risky. It was carried out, however, after three was carried out, however, after three days' desperate fighting, Nov. 23-25. The Germans had hardly faced about when the Russians they had held in check took up a general advance, and before long the Germans were completely sur-

Russians Taken Prisoners. By facing this way, and then the other, the German division finally disengaged itself, and in addition to inflict-ing heavy losses upon the Russians, took 12,000 prisoners, 25 guns and some 70 machine guns and several trains. It is doubtful whether all military history knows of another exploit of this nature. Thanks to the strict censorship of the German army, not even the name of the officer who conducted this brilliant affair is known. To understand fully what the German division accomplished one must consider that it did not leave a single wounded man behind. What night have been the inglorious end of the force was turned into a complete

Within two days the division finally reached the German general battle line and, though utterly exhausted, played a prominent part in the fighting which resulted from the efforts of the Russians to advance west of Lodz.

Meanwhile reinforcements had been brought to Lodz by the Germans dur-ing the last days of November. After three days of severe fighting the Russians were finally obliged, Dec. 5, to evacuate the city. The occupation by the Germans of Lodz ended a phase of operations in Poland which had cost the Russians no less than 180,000 in killed, wounded and prisoners, likewise about 280 pieces of artillery, more than 400 machine guns and much wheel transportation. The losses of the Germans in the operations against Lodz are estimated at 45,000 killed, wounded and prisoners, 30 pieces of artillery and 65 machine guns.

These figures do not include the losses of the Russians and Austro-Hungari-ans who opposed one another on the outhern reaches of the eastern theater of war. The Austrians claim to have caused since Nov. 1 the following Russian losses: Seventy-eight thousand men, killed, wounded and prisoners, about 80 guns and double that number of machine guns. On the other hand the Austro-Hungarian losses have not been slight, and it is believed that they are at little behind the Russian numbers.

Display of Advance Spring Hat Styles

TOMORROW, Wednesday, will be our Annual Display of advance Spring styles, suitable for Southern tourists. We call special attention to the new Bangkoks and Mannish Walk-

We are also showing everything that is new for between season wear-hats of faille silk, satin and maline, and straw and silk combinations-from the tiny Scotch Turbans to the large rolling sailors.

Baby Had Kidney Trouble

I am pleased to write you that your Swamp-Root has done great things for me and my son.

My son was about nine months old when he was taken sick and the doctors who attended him said he had Ridney trouble in the worst form and would live only a short time. We gave him your remedy for about two months and today he is as well as any child of three years, and I cheerelly recommend Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-loot to all who are afflicted with kidney, liver or bladder troubles.

Wishing you success, I remain,

FRANK DUFFY,

Silver Springs, N. Y.

Personally appeared before me this lith of September, 1909, Frank Duffy, who subscribed the above statement and made eath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Moving pictures will be taken of the eight-round boxing bout between 'Charles ('Dutch'') Brandt and Benny McGovern, which is to take place at the Future City Athletic Club on Jan. 12.

Arrangements for this are being made by William J. Maresh, secretary of the Club, and the pictures will be taken by Wooster Lambert, the young St. Louis millionaire, who, on last Sunday, took a moving picture film of a local soccer same.

But he's peep beneath the cap of Patrice Maurin and see if there's a kernel in his nut. For several seasons, it will be remembered, the Philadelphia club was expected to start something. Besides the three stars named as having been traded of near-traded, it owned Knabe, a great second sacker; Doolan, perhaps the set fielding shortstop in the National at that time, and Tom Seaton and Brennan, two of the wonder pitchers of the year.

This will be the first time that the taking of moving pictures will have been attempted at a boxing bout in St. Louis and it is doubtful if any better contest could have been selected for reproduction. Brandt is a bantamweight boxer of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is conceded an excellent chance to succeed "Rid" Williams of Baitmore, Md. as bantamweight champion, while Benny McGovern has earned a reputation that won for him the title of local feitherweight champion.

Unless President Gilmore of the Federal League falls to keep his promise. Pitcher Miles Main of the Detroit team, who yesterday signed a two-year contract with the outlaws, will be assigned to the Terriers. When Gilmore was in St. Louis two weeks ago he announced that the local team would yet acquire a third baseman and a pitcher. He said the hurler was to come from the American League. Many believe that Main is the man in question.

If a doctor, called in to help a sick Looks Like Bum Decision. THE following is part of one report of the battle:

Much disputation followed on Mr. Harold Baker's decision in favor of Mick King (Aust.) over Jeff Smith (U. S. A.) in a fight for the middleweight championship of the world—so it was billed—at the Rushcutters' Bay Stadium on Saturday night. Thousands of the 10,000 present cheered the verdict, though subsequent discussions showed that much of that outburst was due to sentimental interest. King had indeed done extraordinarily well—so surprisingly well in fact that he compelled admiration. But the American, though frequently fooled, was all the time the aggressor over the malority of the 20 rounds, and he amassed sufficient points to entitle him to the retention of his title. For the second time in his Australian ring career Smith will find thousands to agree with him when he tells "a hard luck story." The time McGoorty was said to have beaten him was the other occasion.

For the first 10 rounds of the bout ringsiders saw a different Smith from the man who beat McGoorty (though he did not get the decision), Clabby, and Pat Bradley. Then he was compelled to nurse one hand. On Saturday night he was the same old rubbery, statuesque Smith as to physique, turned out in wonderful condition, but he had two sound hands to use.

American Promoter Says Championships Will Be Decided at Havana in Future.

By Robert Edgren.

Special Correspondent of the Post-NEW YORK, Jan. 5.-Billy Gibson has ust returned from Havana, Cuba. Billy has been down there making final ar-rangement for the holding of championship fights in Havana. Everything is settled and he is now going to see what he can do in the match-making line. He will run one championship fight in February and one in March.

will run one championship fight in February and one in March.

"This is one of the biggest things ever arranged in the sporting line," said Gibson late last night. "I met a number of the most influential people in Cuba, from the Mayor of Havana down, and they are all enthusiastic over the prospect of seeing championship bouts. I have made all arrangements and there will be no interference of any sort. "I am to be the promoter, in entire charge, and with the backing of a number of influential Cubaga. The bouts will probably be held in the Almendares ball park, which seats 20,000 people. I am assured that in Havana bouts between champions in other classes will are a fight for the world's heavyweight title. We expect to fill the arena with each of the championships F am arranging.

"I found the Cubans the finest and most hospitable people I ever met. They are full of enthusiasm for sport. Boxing is going to be the greatest hit ever seen there. They want it and I'm going to give them the best there is.

Jim Driscoll, the greatest ligtle ighting man England ever sent to fighting man England ever sent to America, greatest of his weight—is now wearing an English uniform. Driscoll enlisted in the Welsh Horse some time ago, and if not already at the front, will soon be there.

Jim Driscoll left more efficients in this country than any other boxer who ever visited us. He combined all the finest qualities of the fighting man. His courage and confidence were unlimited. His skill was marvelous. He fought the best men in the lightweight class here as cheerfully as he fought the featherweights, and he was a featherweight himself. When matched, Driscoll only asked: "Is he a good 'un?" and never fussed about weights or reputations. He could box better than the best and hit as hard as any; while he fought he smile. Fighting was pastime for him. Apparently he never had the slightest apprehension of defeat, yet he always gave the other fellow a lot of credit.

After fighting Leach Cross he happened to meet Leach in a bath Leach looked Driscoll over and marveled at the smilness of the man who had peppered him until he was dazed and utterly bewildered. They shook hands. "I feel very fortunate," said Driscoll, smiling. "I'm quite sure you'd have besten me if you had hit me."

"I couldn't hit you in a million years," said Leach. merica greatest of his weight-is

Central Five Is Now First Choice

After a layoff of two weeks, high school basket ball teams will get into action again. Saturday night, at Louisiana Hall. The feature of the double-header undoubtedly will be the Central-Yeatman clash which is scheduled to be played last. Soldan and McKinley fives will meet in the opener.

Yeatman is at present leading the mid-city team by two lengths and has a great edge on Coach Culler's team in the race for scholastic honors. However, Central seems to have the classiest set of players in the entire league. With Nies, Kannsteiner and the two McBlwees, veterans of the 1913-14 campaign, and Pink Mocliwes. The first two games were lost when the school was represented by a quint of substitutes.

McKinley should romp away from Soldan. The West Enders have lost all three games were closed today for a series of games played but set the completion of the first count of the series were closed today for a series of games between the Chicago Nationals and the Philadelphia club of the American League to be played in Florida during the spring framing season. The Chicago club will train at Tamps and the Philadelphia players will be played in each test.

Oakes May Take Perritt Back to Pittsburg Today

Leader of Smoke Town Federals Declares, However, That He Has No Idea Polly Has Any Intention of Breaking His Word to the Outlaw Organization.

By W. J. OConnor.

OLLY PERRITT was whisked away to Chicago a week ago as the guest of Ennis T. Oakes, manager of the Pittsburg Feds. While in the Windy City, Perritt, in the presence of President Gilmore of the outlaws, swore by all the gods and little fishes that he would remain absolutely loyal to the Federal League.

Then Polly returned to St. Louis and started to bum around with Marsans Coming From Schuyler Britton, Harry Sallee and other allies of organized baseball. Cuba for Trial Here Cakes, who had returned to his home in Louisiana, became suspicious of Polly's good intention. So Rebel returned to St. Louis, registering yesterday at the Terminal Hotel.

"I leave tonight for Pittsburg," said Oakes to the Post-Dispatch, this morning, "and I may invite Perritt to go along. However, I merely stopped off here for a day, and was not called here by any fear that Polly would desert.

"Perritt has signed an iron-clad contract with us and, further, has given his word that he will live up to it. That's all you can expect from a player. However, if he cares to accompany me to Pittsburg, he's welcome to do so. I'm going there to arrange for the spring training trip."

OFFICIALS of the St. Louis
Federal League club, yesterday wrote to Armando Marsans, their star outfielder, asking him to be ready to start for St. Louis on short natice to attend his trial, which will come up in the local Federal court on Jan. 19. Business Manager Willis Johnson of the Terriers laughed at the report that Marsans was longing to return to organized baseball.
"If there's one ball player in the Federal League that is more than satisfied with his berth, it is Marsans," said Johnson. "Only yesterday President Steininger received a letter, in which Marsanssaid he had arranged a series of exhibition games for Jones' team next spring. He's with the Feds to the last."

Among those who are credited by Casey's supporters with working against him is Dr. U. G. Crandan, who was appointed a Police Commissioner in St. Joseph, by Gov. Major. Crandall has been in Jefferson City several days. He denied that he was interested in the Dry Forces Oppose Casey.

It is noticeable that Buford's support-ers are Major men and that Casey's ollowers are largely friends of Cowherd and of James A. Reed, who, it is expected, will be opposed for renomination as United States Senator, in two years, by the Governor Casey has encountered opposition from the dry forces in the Senate because of his attitude two years ago on antiiquor measures. Casey was chairman of the Criminal Jurisprudence Committee of the Senate at that time. E. F. Jones, legislative superintendent of the Jones, legislative superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said today that the anti-saloon forces were against Casey.

Uncorking a tin of Tuxedo is like lifting the lid on concentrated sunshine. And then, when you fire up! Well! The first puff's a revelation, the second's a revolution, the third just gets you happy-like! Then you're off— just as sure as you'll see the green grass and hear the birds sing next Spring.

The exclusive "Tuxedo Process" brings out the unsurpassed mildness, delicate fragrance and mellow flavor of the Burley leaf in a way that has never been successfully imitated. At the same time it refines the tobacco until every trace of harshness and "bite" disappears.

Mr. Taft deplores "Democratic promises of Philippine independence." He says the wealthy, culambitious commoners would foment political discord, resulting in some such anarchy as now exists in Mexico, and terminating in the armed intervention of some foreign Power.

We who inherit the noble English language our reading of human history forbids us to enonly language in which brave men have dreamed and planned for human liberty and humane government. All languages share that honor.

As for the fears of the Philippine aristocrats, why, we can parallel them historically with the tion of the problem. fears of the American aristocrats who dreaded the withdrawal of England's colonial governors and armed forces from this continent during the and the railroads, with vast material ready for ninth decade of the eighteenth century, and with the like dread of persons similarly situated in other lands whose common people have won larger this bill. The sentiment should be expressed freedom. It is a factor which commands our respectful consideration, but it does not appeal to us, as democrats and believers in the maximum of human liberty for all deserving persons, as a paramount consideration.

Perhaps Mr. Taft's fears are less important than he thinks them. Perhaps the Democrats, holding fast to the race's noblest ideal, exhibiting a higher faith in common humanity, are wiser than he thinks them.

Concerning Mexico it can truthfully be said that conditions there are anarchic not because the ommon people have been permitted to try the experiment of self-government and have failed. but because for four centuries they have been denied that right, and have at last risen determined to win it, at whatever cost. They are fitting themselves for self-government precisely as Mr. Taft says any people must do, by winning it from their oppressors.

Strange that no one ever penned a sonnet to such a companion of his nights and mornings, such a custodian of his welfare, inspirer of his energies, partner of his successes, mistress of his fate.

Naturally Motorman Berry expresses sorrowful regret over the loss of his alarm clock. We sympathize with him understandingly and fully.

ANDROCLES AND THE BANDIT.

The interest in the old Androcles theme is age less-undying. Mr. Shaw presumed on it with a confidence that was justified when he gave us new drama of a sustained appeal deeply gratifying to the box office. The playwright went back to the original incident for his stage paraphrase, most world-wide warfare that now engulfs hu- but new versions offer themselves almost daily from current events. The latest one is furnished by the St. Louis "wave of crime."

Androcles, in the person of Simon Spitzer, sales man, was crossing Washington avenue at Grand, when Leo, in the person of a flerce bandit appeared to him with a loaded revolver. Androcles in the good old fashion, surrendered himself to be devoured; also a gold watch and $30. However, when he protested earnestly against the loss of the watch, a gift from his father, Leo sniffed amiably in awakening recognition—we mean inspected him narrowly and remarked-of course in subdued even friendly leonine tones:

"Weren't you in a store at Market and Eighteenth with five men when I came in holding up my paw with a thorn in it-I mean when I came in and asked for the price a drink—er-er-a meal?"
"Sure," said Androcles.

"And didn't the five turn me down while you?-

"Sure," said Androcles eagerly, "I pulled the thorn out-that is to say I gave you a dime and said I was sorry I couldn't give you more." Re-united and with identities indubitably established, Androcles and Leo did not, as in the play, whirl around in a joyous dance across the stage. Leo handed back the watch and the $30 Let us be glad that crime waves are relieved with such pleasing incidents. Let us be glad, too, that as Leo was disappearing in the darkness, Androcles called to him and gave him, not 10 cents

So it seems that in spite of police experts, hunger is not without its influence in driving men to crimes. Perhaps if the $1 had been given you think useless and wasteful? PUSH THE SHIPPING BILL

Back of the arguments advanced against the Government shipping bill now pending in the Senate is the manifest fear that special interests may be hurt by the entrance of the Government in the ocean transportation business.

The obvious answer to the objection that the Government cannot get enough ships to do the work required is that some ships are better than none. Any increase of American shipping facilitured, aristocratic residents of the islands dread ties would bring relief. As to the danger of com-America's departure. They fear, and he fears, plications with belligerent nations, the Govern ment has power to enforce precautions against contraband and respect from belligerents. The danger is rather imaginary than real.

The controlling fact is the need of shipping to move American produce to eager markets. The may perhaps be pardoned for believing it would great interest to be served is that of American serve as well as another as a world language, but producers whose inability to move their products is resulting in the checking of trade activity and tertain the grotesque belief that English is the great loss. Freight-carrying American vessels on the seas now would mean profitable activity in all lines of production, trade and transportation. Private capital cannot or will not do the work. STOP THE UPROAR,

A citizen writes to the Post-Dispatch a protest against the numerous robberies that have occurred lately, and says that "if we haven't enough police protection to protect us, the soldiers should be called out to guard our stores, banks and homes." He quaintly concludes: "A robbery is an uproar, the same as war."

There seems to have been a slip of the pen i Citizen's complaint. Most robberies are of the quiet kind. The uproar is usually made afterwards, by the victim. However, we have Shakspeare's authority for the use of "uproar" to describe something which causes confusion, as "I should uproar the universal peace." In this sense, a quick succession of robberies in the city, alarming the general public, certainly causes confusion and disturbs the peace. It should be stopped.

Incidentally, spoutings of the sort given out by our recent visitor, Alex. Berkman, who is reported to have said at a meeting Sunday afternoon that he would welcome the display of a little more criminal instinct on the part of laborers, is uproar in the Shakspearean sense. Berk-

If we now exclude the blacks because they are black and the yellows and browns because they are yellow and brown various races of Southern Europe because they are inhabitants of Southern Europe?

In truth there is neither courage nor wisdon in this legislation. It is sustained only by race prejudice at the South and on the Pacific coast, jockeying with trade unionism throughout the North. In the South and in the Gulf and Pacific states the people are honest enough to say what they mean. When the South wants black mer excluded it says black men. When the Pacific coast wants yellow and brown men excluded it says yellow and brown men. How many Northern Senators and Representatives who voted in favor of the literacy test dare say that they mean to exclude Italians and Jews?

The various bills as they stand are a disgrace to the United States. They can hardly emerge in any form that will escape a veto. -++-

BUDGET-MAKING BY THE PEOPLE.

Article XVI of the new St. Louis charter establishes a budget system for the city and creates Board of Estimate and Appropriation consisting of the Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen. In detailing the manner in which authorization is to be given for nunicipal expenditures annually, section 3 of this article prescribes the following:

The Board of Estimate and Appropriation shall submit to the Board of Aldermen at the beginning of its annual session, or as soon thereafter as possible, a statement showing the estimated receipts and requirements of each department, board or office for the cur-rent year and a comparative statement of receipts and expenses during the previous year, first, however, affording taxpayers an opportunity to be heard thereon, as may be provided by ordinance. Thus in the established process of budget making a by no means unimportant part is assigned to the nonofficeholding citizen. In comthis time, but a $1 bill stripped from the roll pliance with this section public hearings on the 1915 budget are appointed for three Wednesdays and two Fridays in January, beginning tomorrow Have the official budget makers included item

ST. LOUIS AND THE I. W. W.

F the I. W. W. has not definitely settled upon St. Louis as the scene of its Winter season, we would like to point out the respects in which her qualifications nay be said to be doubtful. If it can be established by due process in comparison that she is pre-eminently the place for these demonstrations, well and good. We only want to be sure that what seem to us the obvious superiorities of some other cities are considered, and that if we are finally selected it will be because we have fairly won. It is usual not to select St. Louis for any purpose whatever except by severe process of elimination, and if it is possible we should like to see the rule scrupulously followed in this case. We have never had anything here which was not ours by good right, and we have no wish to have our rights called into ques tion at this late day. We certainly do not want to that a great majority of both parties would like find ourselves at one end of a San Francisco and San doubtless a man could become very much attached to put out of the United States not only all yel- Diego affair, with rival demonstrations by the I. Just at this moment the Duke of Wellington entered the Prince's room.

"Why, because you can best criticise my drawing," said the Prince. "Now, can you tell me who is on the

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

HERE are you going?" asked Billy Goat one morning when he met Billy Pig dressed in a "I am going sailing," answered

Pig, stepping to show off his suit.
"Oh, yes, I know how you go sailing. aid Billy Goat, with a shake of his head. "But suppose you fall out of the oat-can you swim?" out of it," answered Billy Pig. "Come along, and I will show you."

"I guess not," said Billy Goat. on't want to drown.' with a toss of his head. "I am glad I am not, for I will have a lot of fun you jumped into the boat, and, as the wind

"Oh, see Billy Pig sailing a boat." said Madam Duck, who was out with her family; "he certainly does look fine in his sailor suit."

this was the undoing of Billy Pig, for the wind changed just as he stood up, Pig lost his balance, and out he went Down to the water's edge went all the ducks and geese and the hens and rooster, the dog and even the cat. "Swim for the shore," called called the geese. "Hold your breath, Billy Pig," called the dog, "and you will float." "Kick with your hind feet and padd" with your front," called the cat.

"Help! Help!" called the roo Billy Fig was about to give up when he heard a voice from the other side of one that will no doubt be followed for the pond calling, "Catch hold of the the spring and that is the old-fashioned oat, Billy Pig, and I will save you," and Billy Goat came running to the pond with a long pole.

Billy Pig had just strength enough to catch hold of the boat, which was loating along beside him and held on until Billy Goat waded out into the pond and reached out the pole. ailway. He suffered a crampy kind of Billy Pig caught it and Billy Goat

"She will not think much of it now," Billy Pig looked down at his dripping suit and sighed. "I'll have to sit in the sun and dry before I can go home," he said.

rock in the sun and late that afternoon he met him coming up the road. "What in the world has happened by you now?" he asked, for Billy Pig looked like a boy who has outgrown his clothes. The sleeves of his jacket were half way up his arms and his trousers above his knees. "I think it shrunk when it dried," said Billy Pig trying to pull the sleeves

"You had better go 'round the back way," said Billy Goat, laughing as picture in a funny paper.' BILLY PIG was very proud when he heard this remark and he stood up so that they might see him better, and this was the might see him better, and she always mute with a remark and she always mute with the was the might see him better, and she always mute with a remark and she always mute with the was the might see him better, and she always mute with a remark and she always mute with the might be seen that the might be seen and she always puts ruffles on her skirts when they shrink."

"Well, if you think she will do that," said Billy Goat, "you better go over in the field and change clothes the scarecrow. His clothes will be big enough at any rate. I wouldn't wear "I will," said Billy Pig, starting off

Everyday Perplexities

A gentleman scrupulously lifts his hat with a partial eye; but it likes to see them mindful of certain whenever a lady bows to him, whenever he meets a male acquaintance who is accompanying a lady or even small courtesies. To make a mistake when he is himself with a lady and meets a man friend. If a lady who is a complete stranger to him should n a point of etiquete may be a trifle, out it is certainly one that causes the average man much embarrassment and discomfort. Yet it is so easy for a usy person to forget these things that nemory by recapitulating a few imortant points. In walking with ladies a man almost invariably takes the side of the walk nearest the street, although there is no very strict rule about this. It is not considered good form for a man to walk between two ladies or to turn and look after a lady who has passed him. The lady always bows first, and it is almost unnecessary to say that on receipt of her salutation a gentleman at once politely removes his hat.

No man who is well bred ever smokes in the presence of ladies without firs sking if they object to it. ionable society never thinks of calling upon a woman in the evening, with the ossible exception of a relative or old that is, the conventional dress suit ith long-tailed coat, low-cut vest and white tie). On being informed that the ladies are at home, he removes his over-coat, hat and gloves and leaves them in the hall. When he has finished his call he says farewell to his hostess a parlor door, gets unassisted into his overcoat and lets himself out at street door. It is not considered in good taste for a man to evening call much after 10 or 10:30 at the latest. When he calls upon feminine friend who happens to be visiting another lady who may be an entire stranger to him he must not, nevertheless, forget to ask for the hostess as well as for his especial riend, if he wishes to be considered well-bred. The hostess can see hin not, as she likes. It is perfectly permissible for her to excuse herself. At dinner parties a man should offer his right arm to a lady whom has been asked to take in to dinner. He must make himself agreeable to her throughout the meal. He is also privileged to talk to his neighbor

Prices Rise Rather Sharply After Some Early Selling and Close Is Firm.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review Post, in its copyrighted mancial review today, says:
"In one significant respect today's stock market duplicated yesterday's. Prices for American shares, on the early London market, ranged \(\frac{1}{2} \) to 1 full point below parity with Monday's New York closings; but New York market itself showed no concern whatever over the foreign values. It opened a triffe under yesterday, then began to advance again.

of Europe swamping our markets with forced sales. But the situation is peculiar.

"On the face of things—even with open arbitrage trading forbidden on the London Stock Exchange—it would seem as if someone might buy 'Americans' in Capel Court and resell in Wall street at prices a point or so higher. But it would be a precarious profit-making experiment.

Trading Abroad Quiet.

"The cables say that less than a thousand shares in all were dealt in yesterday in London, but the arbitrageur must deal in something like a thousand shares to make his operation worth while, and one may imagine without much difficulty whether he could get that much in such a market without driving London's prices up to the New York level.

"If, indeed, English holders of our level.

"If, indeed, English holders of our securities were selling in huge quantities, to raise the money for subscriptions to a one or two billion dollar British war loan, the market here scriptions to a one or two billion dollar British war loan, the market here as well as there would be forcibly beaten down to the minimum prices.

"But, aside from all the considerations bearing on the foreign market's natural motive to sell our securities, or to refrain from selling, it must not be overlooked that the Bank of England's role in the floating of the war loan renders wholly unnecessary such realizing on other securities.

"When subscribers can raise money on war-loan holdings—up to the full issue price of the loan, and at an interest rate 1 per cent below the bank's official minimum—it should be reasonably clear that the process of dislodging other investment holdings, on any enormous scale is not likely to operate in its usual manner.

"No doubt these expedients may be"

shipment of gold across the whole Atlantic.

"If the Paris market needs gold preemptorily it would draw direct on London. If it owed us gold and had a claim on London, it would arrange for the Bank of England to send the requisite sum from Ottawa to New York.

"Among other incidents of the day, French 3 per cent rentes on the Paris Bourse advanced to 73, against 72½ yesterday, 72½ at the Bourse re-opening on Dec. 7, and 70½ at the low point after that reopening.

"The wheat market at Chicago rose to the highest price since the Leiter corner of 1898. This past week's movement has been a pretty rapid pace of recovery; such extreme advances are apt both to stimulate the rush of wheat from the farm and to induce the foreign buyers to move more slowly."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

iny tendency, today's early stock market, as inclined to follow the lead of London where American securities were off from substantial fractions to 1½ points, Canadian Pacific being weakest. The copper group also reflected moderate local pressure and among specialties Rumley preferred declined 5 points and Mexican Railway first preferred 8 points. Union Pacific, which opened at a slight gain, soon fell back and New York Central, one of yesterday's strongest features, also reacted. Dealings were of a light and professional character, with general recoveries at the end of the first half hour.

The ease with which prices advanced after the early irregularity suggested

The Jarr Family

By ROY L McCARDELL

Mr. Jarr Is Launched on Career of Highly Regrettable Delight.

CASH clo'! I cash clo'!" chanted a commercial carol singer, as Mr. Jarr, in company with his companions in the holiday hiatus, stepped out upon the street from the cheerful electric glow of a cozy street-

"I cash clo'! I cash clo'!" repeated the itinerant business vocalist. The slo-gan that he had cried 'mid snow and ice meant for old clothes he'd give a price.

Mr. Jarr was still with his old friend, John W. Rangle, and his new friends, Mr. Wilkinson from Selma, Ala., and the hospitable fellow-member of the Peoria Branch of the Sheltering Order of Wok-Wok, whose name was Bertram B. Bobus, according to the cards he dis-tributed. The card bore the insignia of every secret and fraternal order known It also stated that Bertram B. Bogu was a special agent for insurance, museal instruments, coal and wood, sub eription books, oils, paint and varnish, obiles, typewriters, real estate an unlisted stocks. In fact, it was evident that Mr. Bogus of Peoria did everything except work for a living.

Seeing the full quartet coming out o the street-side inn were midway in a holiday hiatus, the gentleman who crypcried the shibboleth of secondtically cried the shibboleth of second hand clothes approached them with merry smile.

When they paused to greet him as a dear old friend and chanted to him that for the days of Old Lang Syne, he informed them that he paid spot cash for ladies' and gentlemen's cast-off cloth-

Whereup Mr. Rangle gave a loud cry and cast off his overcoat and hat, which the itinerant purchaser of discarded garments offered a dollar a half for, al-though, as he informed the full quartet, uld lose money by it.

Then Mr. Jarr and Mr. Wilkinson wept and sold him their overcoats at the same price. Mr. Bogus grew idignant and said he would give $20 apiece for the coats, only he hadn't the money. That was the kind of a man Mr. Bogus was. He'd make the most generous offers, nly he never had the money to com-

Mr. Bogus, however, gave the old lothes merchant his card. When the atter individual saw Mr. Bogus lived in Peorla, owing to the cost of extending his business to cover the foreign

Mr. Wilkinson had no cards with him ept a poker deck. But he delighted beholders by bringing them into view and doing some startling feats, consisting of shuffling the deck and asking anybody to take a card—any card. And then only permitting them to take the one on top of the nine of spades. He named the card thus se-ected with unerring accuracy.

Mr. Jarr and Mr. Rangle gave their resses. Mr. Bogus always kept one of there is one woman in a r hese deadly-when-loaded weapons—a Mr. Bogus began singing:

The Prodigality of the Late A. D. Brown.

HE late A. D. Brown, who left a fortune of more than $7,000,000, seldom carried any money in his pockets. Often when he went to the station for a long trip he would have to borrow money to buy tickets from some of his employes.

few months before his fatal illness he was ordered to Europe by his physician. He sent for Dr. John P. Greene, president of William Jewell College, to go with him. His bargain was that he was to pay all the expenses but that Dr. Greene was to be custodian of all the money. The shoe magnate was not to have the handling of a

Everything went well until they reached Berlin. There the demands of the hotel employes for tips were so persistent that Brown found it uncomfortable to be without change. "You will not let me have a cent of money," he complained to Dr.

Greene, "and I can't get around this hotel without it." Dr. Greene reminded Brown of their agreement. But Brown insisted he had to have some money, and Dr. Greene gave him a 20 mark gold piece, and two ten mark gold pieces, explaining to him what they were. Brown went on his way about the hotel, and in an gold piece to an attendant who assisted him with his bath, one ten mark piece to a boy who shined his shoes, and the other to the maid who took care of his room.

"Why, Mr. Brown," Dr. Greene said in surprise, "do you know how much money you have given away?"

"You have given away nearly $10 in tips within less than an hour." "Well," exclaimed Brown, "didn't I tell you, when we started out, not, under any circumstances, to give me a cent of money."
